Q.3 a) Analyse the problems faced by the translator at phonological, lexical and syntactic levels while translating a literary text.

OR

b) "Translation faces difficulties in the interpretation of social and cultural issues". Discuss with suitable examples

Q.4 a) Translate the following passages into Hindi/Marathi

Teacher's understanding of human relations and motives is more important than factual and dry type of knowledge about the subject matter. It is here that the teacher's role is considered to be unique and of paramount importance. Teacher has to bear in mind that the thoughts and desires have to be target so that life may yield its full fruit. Spiritual regeneration on one hand and more purgation on the other warrants our immediate attention. Self-sufficiency in an individual will automatically make the nation sufficient. The world of today is definitely different from that of yesterday. In this world of great competition every country must have the service of best brains at its command so that in this fast and long race and non-stop struggle for existence, the country is not left behind to take care of ruins and skirmishes here and there.

b) Aba was shiny and dark. But his darkness had a radiance. A sharp nose, bright eyes, a wide forehead and a tall, trim build. Everybody was impressed with his intellect the moment they met him, and were immediately in awe of him. In comparison, Aai was very short. She was much fairer than Aba, but they still looked like a mismatched couple.

Aai's father kept his promise to my father for two years after the wedding. But then his bakery was destroyed in a fire, and his business was ruined. Aba wanted him to finance his education from the insurance money. But he had five other daughters, all of whom looked like Aai....

Aba look out his ire on Aai. He used to barely talk to her. He finally financed his own education and became a professor – of philosophy!

Q 4 a) Translate the following passages into Hindi/Marathi

Development in a country depends greatly on the quality of its teachers. There are some major concerns which call for an immediate action. A comprehensive, dynamic and responsive system of teacher education needs to be continually evolved keeping the overall scenario in view

The need for improved levels of educational participation for overall progress should be recognized. Colleges of Teacher Education should take a variety of initiatives to transform the nature and function of Education- both formal as well as non-formal.

Universal accessibility to quality education is considered essential for development. This can necessitate improvement in the system of Teacher Education so as to prepare quality teachers. Various Commissions and Committees appointed by the Central and State Government in recent decades have emphasized the need for quality teacher education suited to the needs for the educational system.

b) When I started going to college I wished I had more money. There was enough for the local, but not for the bus, the canteen and to buy for myself, like most of the others did. Each morning I'd get ready and stand in front of her, hand outstretched. She would open the cupboard slowly at her convenience and take out her purse, or even go and turn off the gas stove in the middle of it." Aai, hurry up, I am getting late". I'd say

"Never mind it's not as if you have a court hearing lined up. You are just going to college, aren't you? Your baap has been doing that all his life. What good has come of it?" She would slowly take out some change from her purse, and count it, saying, "Eight annas for the bus and here, take a rupee....eat some junk..."

"Aai, give me one more rupee, na..."

"Hmm. Your father has an inheritance, doesn't he?"
